Equally, if you get caught using an account generated through these programs, there are big consequences. The official Roblox site strongly advises against using schemes like account generators. They say that anyone asking you to input your details anywhere is scamming you, and that you won't receive a glitched account or free Robux. The terms of service also warn against it, too. They say that you cannot obtain "exploited game or experience content." This includes hacked accounts with Robux. If you're caught doing this, they reserve the right to immediately close your account.

As in any service game with similar characteristics, in Roblox we find a system free-to-play with microtransactions to obtain various items, skins and others. This in-game money is called Robux and we can buy it in packs of 400, 800 and 1700 from 5 to 21 respectively. However, there are ways to get it without having to go through the box and therefore completely free of charge, although they will usually require some effort and time on our part. We will tell you about it below, in addition to remembering that you also have a piece available in which we explain how you can redeem free codes or promo codes.

If these new spaces were indeed to emerge, it's worth considering the issue of control and mediation of information. The internet as we know it today wasn't developed by any one single entity, but built collaboratively around open standards and protocols, including, notably, net neutrality. Whether such principles would govern this would-be internet successor is a topic of debate. If any company were able to consolidate power over the Metaverse's formation and become its de facto gatekeeper, the control they could wield over the dissemination of information and in setting their own commercial and security practices would be enormous.

There are, however, a few easy things you can do to minimise the risk. First off, as mentioned above, don't tell your kid the password to their Roblox account. The reason behind this is the 'free Robux' scams that proliferate the internet. These sites get your details by disguising themselves as sites that look like an official Roblox page and encourage people to log into their Roblox account via their page to claim 'free Robux'. If you do this you have just given the scammers all of the information they need to take over the account and clear it out. No matter how tempting these sites are you need to know that there is NO SUCH THING AS FREE ROBUX. Only purchase Robux using the methods mentioned before.

Finally, there is a subscription method where you can select the price that is right for you. What is a Robux Generator? Beats me, because they don't exist. Or rather, they do, but they're a complete scam.

Developers can make money by selling things like items, cosmetics, or avatars (often in their own in-game stores similar to those in mobile apps) in exchange for Roblox's in-app currency, Robux. And it seems like some of the most successful games can pay out nicely, once they've reached critical mass. Roblox says over 1,250 developers earned at least $10,000 worth of Robux in 2020, and over 300 of them earned $100,000 or more.
